

M^r. OGILBY'S LOTTERY,

Licensed by His Royal Highness the Duke of York, and Assistants of the Corporation of the Royal Fishing,
For the vending of certain Volumes of his own BOOKS.

BEING opened on the tenth day of May last, several eminent Persons, Adventurers, present at the putting up of the Lots, and sealing of the Boxes, and also at the time of the drawing out of the Lots, keeping a General Check-Book, and particular Registers, which upon examination agreed with the Authors Register exactly, and which is certified under the Hands of those Persons that were pleased to appear as Commissioners for their own, and the satisfaction of all Persons concerned; And whereas, there were 1820 Lots, and but 700 Adventurers that lent in their Names time enough to be put in; therefore the Author did by the advice of the Commissioners, and Adventurers, fill up the number with his own Name, as appears by the particulars hereunto annexed, which Lots, are by the same Advice to be drawn on the twelfth day of June next, at the same Place, at the Office in Moor-crafts Court, near the Horn-Tavern in Fleet-Street, and in the same manner (that is to say) Whosoever will Adventure, may be pleased to put in Fourty Shillings for each Lot, which are ordered and disposed after this manner.

The Number of Blanks, One;
Which whosoever draws, shall be presented by the Author

The Lots before drawn were 1820, and the Blank, whereof the Author drew Number one, Number two, and Number five (Number three, and Number four, being drawn for the Adventurers) of Number six there were twenty Lots, and there were of them drawn for the Author thirteen, and seven for the Adventurers.

Of Number	7	There were	4 drawn for the Author	and	1 for the Adventurers.
	8		4 drawn for the Author		1 for the Adventurers.
	9		5 drawn for the Author		0 for the Adventurers.
	10		18 drawn for the Author		7 for the Adventurers.
	11		50 drawn for the Author		40 for the Adventurers.
	12		50 drawn for the Author		40 for the Adventurers.
	13		221 drawn for the Author		129 for the Adventurers.
	14		310 drawn for the Author		190 for the Adventurers.
	15		297 drawn for the Author		103 for the Adventurers.
	16		142 drawn for the Author		83 for the Adventurers.

So it appears by these Particulars, that Fortune, did so equally distribute the Prizes, as if she had intended the Remainder should be drawn again. The Numbers three and four being single Lots, and drawn by the Adventurers, their want is supplied by adding fifty of the Kings Entertainments unto fifty Homers Odysses, which should have gon in single Lots, and fifty Entertainments more to fifty Aesops Fables, which should have been single also; So that of the 142 drawn by the Author, there is but 42 in single Lots. The Number of Lots being 1017 besides the Blank, it is more then twenty to one if any Adventurer draw the Lowest Prize.

The Places appointed for the Payment of Money, and Receiving the new Tickets, are at the Flying-Horse in Cornhill, Mr. Godfrey Richards Stationer, near the Old-Exchange, Mr. Robert Tarnway in Wood-Street, Mr. Thomas Rogers, without Cripple Gate. Mr. Heriats, Goldsmith, next door to the Castle Tavern in Fleet Street, Mr. William Morgan, for the Author, at the Office in Moor-crafts Court, near the Horn Tavern in Fleet Street. And Mr. Francis Coffyn, Scrivener, in Ruffel Street, Covent Garden. The Adventurers are desired to send in their Names before the sixth day of June next.
